BREEDING BUREAU IDEA
IS GAINING HEADWAY

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Eastern writers are waking up to the expansion of breeding in this state. Neil Newman, in The Thoroughbred Record, truthfully declares there is a wider interest in the breeding angle of the sport in California than in any other state thrown open to racing in the past twenty years. He expects this commonwealth to again take the place she occupied in the breeding firmament around the turn of the century.

As has been pointed out so often in these columns, there are too many inferior sires in our midst and the only way to remedy the situation is to establish a California State Breeding Bureau with an outstanding stallion or two available for owners of mares. Private enterprise has shown itself unable to cope with the conditions confronting the game.

Newman is of the opinion that California is not the only state overrun with inferior sires; he says all of the breeding regions of the country are afflicted the same way.

In a few years the breeders promise to have quite a large number of fashionably bred matrons, but it is far more difficult to provide suitable mates for them. Each year at Saratoga yearling fillies are purchased by Californians that can be placed in the breeding paddock when through racing, with the likelihood they will produce better than ordinary performers for the course.

There are between ninety and one hundred coming two year olds at Tanforan right now. They are being prepared for racing next year. Among the interesting bands is that of young A. B. Spreckels, who is following the footsteps of his father in campaigning a racing string and undoubtedly later on will be the master of a haras such as his father had at Napa. There are three fillies in the lot, by such well known sires as Man o' War, Pennant and Ariel. They appear to be of the type to become worth while matrons later on.

BOARD OKEHS PLAN TO PURCHASE
SITE FOR COUNTY OFFICE BUILDING
ON JEFFERSON AVENUE IN REDWOOD

Pay Sum Of $6500 For Corner Lot—Voice Intention To Expend $100,000 On New Structure—To Ask PWA Grant To Match Funds Appropriated By County

Definite action toward erecting a new county office building was taken at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Monday morning of this week. Authorization was voted to purchase a proposed site at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Marshall street in Redwood City.

Price to be paid for the lot is $6500.

GRANT ASKED

County Executive Kellogg was instructed to make immediate application to Washington for a PWA grant of $45,000, which is to supplement the $50,000 being raised this year by a special tax levy.

Providing the grant is secured immediately, construction work probably will start as early as January or February.

The new building will be approximately 200 feet long by 50 feet wide fronting on Middlefield road and running back to Jefferson, it was stated. It will be two stories to begin with, specifications allowing for an additional story at a later date.

SUPERVISORS TO MOVE

It will house modern headquarters for the county fire department; the meeting room of the supervisors; courtroom for the Third Township justice of the peace and offices of the county librarian, agricultural commissioner and school superintendent.

RESIDENTIAL

The county's land use ordinance was amended by the board to create the district around Junipero Serra boulevard as a "residential estates" area, closing the highway to commercial exploit.

Woodrow Wilson
PTA Has Luncheon

The annual luncheon given, Tuesday of this week, by the Woodrow Wilson P. T. A. for the teachers and members was a huge success. Mrs. Lois Miller, district president, shared honors with R. L. Crane, district superintendent of schools, as distinguished guests.

Mr. Crane introduced the teachers to members present and Mrs. Miller extended greetings from the district.

Mr. W. Elder, district life membership chairman, spoke on student aid loans.

Mrs. L. Thomey presided at the regular meeting held in the afternoon. Sixty guests were present and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

HELP MAKE ROLL
CALL A SUCCESS

County Superintendent Asks Aid On Behalf Of Our Children

Pansy Jewett Abbott, superintendent of schools of San Mateo County, has issued the following appeal to citizens:

The twentieth annual roll call for the Red Cross is on! What does that mean to you and to me? Let each of us answer that call cheerfully and eagerly. Alone we can do but little to safeguard community needs and responsibilities, but united in membership in the Red Cross we can be assured that the fine program initiated and promoted by the local leaders in our Red Cross chapter will be continued.

As a people we cannot afford to forget the public health work accomplished, the daily service given to thousands of our school children as well as the help rendered to sick and needy. In time of fire and other public catastrophe the Red Cross lends prompt aid.

Join today. Work lies ahead. Make the roll call a success in San Mateo County.

New Auto Plate
Notices On Way

California motor vehicle owners to the number of 2,400,000 will soon receive post card notices of the fees they will have to pay before they can obtain license plates for 1937.

Renewal will begin January 3, 1937, and officials request the public not to attempt to secure plates until that time.

The cards will show the fees for plates and the amount of the motor vehicle license fee, which takes the place of city and county personal property taxes.

RESPONSE FOR VETERAN FUND
GROWS Apace

Goal For Contributions For Gifts Should Exceed Expectations

To provide Christmas gifts and entertainment for the 300 disabled veterans at the U. S. Veterans Hospital at Livermore, during Yuletide week, members of the hospital's Christmas committee composed of civic leaders of the San Francisco bay region, are soliciting contributions from hundreds of organizations in California and Nevada. The budget goal is $2500, this sum being necessary to provide a big show in the hospital auditorium and in the wards where veterans too sick to be moved into the auditorium may have the pleasure of enjoying the jolly Christmas program. In addition, Christmas gifts are distributed, each one selected to meet with the individual veteran's desires, according to the committee chairman.

First contributions of the 1936 Christmas Veterans fund arrived at the committee's headquarters at 121 East Eleventh street, Oakland, this week from two labor organizations—the Brotherhood of Teamsters and Auto Truck Drivers, Oakland Local No. 70 and San Francisco Local No. 85, with the following message:

"Cherrio Pals. This is the best we could do. Union labor is appealed to a whole lot, but in the future we may be able to do more. This check is just a drop in the bucket, but you tell the veterans at the hospital that we hope they have the very best Christmas in all the world. They deserve it."

This letter with its accompanying check is but one of hundreds which the committee will have received from contributing organizations in California and Nevada before Christmas Day. "Many checks come unsolicited from philanthropic citizens and organizations," said the treasurer.

BOARD BALKS ON PIER LINE SET

Planners Are Called Into Joint Meeting As Proposals To Board Are Scrapped

A proposal to the Board of Supervisors, Monday, to establish harbor limits in South San Francisco at the line of fee title ownership met with strong opposition.

Pointing out that establishment of bulkhead lines at the edge of privately owned property would bar the public from using the tidelands and prevent establishment of government air base facilities there, should they ever be offered, Supervisor Witt made a motion that the entire subject be reopened at a joint meeting of the planning commission, board of supervisors, district attorney and county engineer.

The motion carried. Engineer U. S. Marshall also okehed the rejection.

FRIDAY 13 NO JINX!

The old superstitious jinx of Friday 13 was buried last week by officials of Jefferson Union High School District.

For years, local leaders have hoped and worked for the erection of a gymnasium and swimming pool at the high school. All opposition was finally hurled—a bond issue carried and a federal grant was made.

Last week superstition was poked squarely on the "button," and ground was broken Friday 13 to sink a foundation for the structure.

County Superintendent Talks To PTA On Changes In Educational System

Educational changes to meet the world of today were discussed by Pansy Jewett Abbott, San Mateo County superintendent of schools, speaking before the Jefferson Union High School Parent Teachers Association, Wednesday evening of this week, on the theme: "Determining Factors in the Changing Curriculum."

Miss Abbott graphically described the educational methods of a generation ago and contrasted them with the present, emphasizing the fact that it had taken years to arrive at this point. "The teacher takes the child and leads him to new vistas. The human element must be recognized more than ever before. Co-operation is taught, and the personal development of the child is the aim of the progressive teacher," declared the speaker.

Rural teachers are aided by many mimeographed booklets prepared in the office of the county superintendent. The social studies outlined in use in San Mateo County has been recognized by Columbia University as one of the best in the United States.

"Understanding of human life is a vital factor in education. The child needs strength to meet new situations. Teaching the child and not the subject is the new objective. We are living in a different world than the one in which our parents lived. "Distance has largely been eliminated, and will be more so as time passes. Formerly the child left

Treaty Scrapped

Springing another "Saturday surprise" last week, Germany declared that she would no longer recognize the Versailles treaty clauses which internationalized the Rhine, Danube, Elbe and Oder rivers.

The announcement came from Berlin and over rode immediate opposition because of the fact that all foreign offices are closed on Saturday.

UNIONS OF LABOR
OFFER SUPPORT TO CHEST FUNDS

Business Firms And Others Get Behind Movement With Enthusiasm

Business men and members of organized labor alike are giving unqualified support to the Community Chest campaign for $2,029,809, it was announced by the campaign chairman.

Raymond M. Alvord, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, said:

"Business men who increase their contributions to the Community Chest this year have the satisfaction of knowing that their money goes to a cause that has been thoroughly tested and never found wanting."

The Central Labor Council and the Building Trades Council adopted resolutions approving wholeheartedly of the drive to meet "San Francisco's Greatest Need." The labor council resolution said in part:

"This organization commends the annual appeal of the Community Chest to the thoughtful and sympathetic consideration of all members and friends of the various bodies constituting the San Francisco Labor Council and organized labor generally."

Chairman Brawner said that all citizens are invited to the daily report luncheons in the St. Francis Hotel. Opera stars and other entertainment features are provided. Each guest pays for his own lunch.

The campaign is scheduled to close December 2. Necessity of raising the entire sum was stressed by Brawner, who declared:

"Some persons may wonder why Community Chest agencies cannot continue to operate on a budget of approximately $1,800,000 if they have succeeded in doing so during the last three years. The answer is that they have not succeeded in covering even operating expenses on this budget."

First meeting of the peninsula district since the appointment of Saiz will be held tonight at Uncle Tom's Cabin in San Bruno.

Palmer, Alaska—The first suicide at Matanuska colony of farmers transplanted from the midwestern states was reported here last Saturday.

FRANCIS TO TEST
COUNTY CHARTER
VOTING METHOD

Supervisor Claims San Mateo Charter Invalid—Fight Has Been Taken To The State High Court

Chairman of the San Mateo Board of Supervisors, Manuel Francis, went directly to the state Supreme Court this week in an attempt to have himself declared elected over Alvin S. Hatch as supervisor from the Fourth District, at the election November 3.

Francis based his action on a declaration that the election of supervisors by the county at large, as provided in Article II of the county charter, is invalid.

CARRIED COASTSIDE

In the election Francis carried his coastside district, securing 743 votes as against 622 for Hatch. If the board had declared the election by districts instead of by the county at large, Francis, of course, would retain his position without question.

Attorney Manders, representing the incumbent member, drew up a formal demand that Francis be declared to have been elected. Clerk William Augustus read the demand at the board meeting.

Informed by Assistant District Attorney Daniel Sullivan that, since the demand had been presented, the board must vote on accepting or rejecting it, Supervisor Beer moved

S. M. Supervisors Meet S. F. Board To Ask Rapid Transit Plan Placed On Ballot

Members of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors attended a meeting of the San Francisco board, Tuesday afternoon, to ask that a rapid transit plan be placed on the ballot.

San Mateo officials were expected to request that a link between the Third and Townsend station and the bay bridge terminal be included in the proposed San Francisco subway system. Such a link would eliminate the now slow travel on one-man cars.

Probation Violator
Sent To San Quentin

For breaking his probation, Andrea Papeleo, Pescadero laborer, was sentenced, Tuesday of this week, by Superior Judge Maxwell McNutt to San Quentin penitentiary.

The probation was revoked at the recommendation of County Probation Officer Francis Robinson. On a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, the prisoner faces from one to ten years.

On Christmas day, last year, Papeleo was arrested following a beer tavern brawl during which he knifed a countryman. He pleaded guilty and was given two years probation.

Last week Papeleo was arrested after he ran amuck on a ranch near Pescadero and fired several shots at a coastside Japanese woman.

Thanksgiving

FOR the moon and the stars that shine,
For the stout heart that beats with mine,
For my home and its daily cares,
For dreams that grow along the years,
For those friends whom I hold most dear,
For my senses, e'er keen and clear,
For the seasons which come and go,
For the books that I've learned to know,
For music and its lovely way,
For the sun pouring out gold all day,
For the hills of my native land,
And the clasp of my children's hand,
For the life that binds me to these
Let me be thankful, dear God—please!

Ancient Mayas Kept Thanksgiving Day

WHEN football fans turn out for the Thanksgiving games they will perhaps realize that they are conforming with an old American custom, but do they know how old that custom is? asks a writer in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Thanksgiving football games were instituted in America about 2000 B. C. The custom began among the ancient Mayas, who, although they did not eat mince pie or sit in concrete stadiums, did dine on turkey and did set aside a day on which they offered up the first fruits of the harvest season, feasted and played, or watched a ball game in a stone-walled enclosure.

The department of middle American research at Tulane university has discovered that the Mayan games were like ours in many respects. Just as fans today travel for miles to see the Thanksgiving games, so did our predecessors on this continent journey across the land, on foot or horseback, to Chichen-Itza, holy city of the Mayas, to view the holiday spectacle.

In his description of the Mayan game, Maurice Reis, on the staff of the department of middle American research at Tulane, says: "As it began when Rome ruled the waves and Frenchmen wore bear skins as their Sunday best, football wasn't just football. That is, the ball wasn't kicked with the foot and the scores were produced by persuading the ball to pass through a perpendicular ring high on a stone wall."

When the thousands of pilgrims who came every year arrived at Chichen-Itza, they offered sacrifices to the earth gods in an impressive thanksgiving ceremony led by the ruler.

"The earth gods," says Alfredo Barrera Vasquez, of the staffs of the Mexican National Museum and the National University of Mexico, who is of Maya descent, "are called the Four Bacabs and are represented as supporting the four corners of the earth. Each god has an appropriate color: red for the east where the sun rises, black for the west where it sinks into darkness, yellow for the warm south and white for the cold north. Yum K'ax, Lord of the Forest, resides at the center of the universe and is characterized by the colors blue and green."

The Thanksgiving ceremonies still take place in some parts of Mexico today, although most of the old customs are dominated by the Catholic influence.

The name of the principal god of the harvest is lost. However, we have many representations of him on ancient monuments. He is always depicted as being young and handsome, symbolic of life and growth. From his head grows maize instead of hair.

Roast your traditional turkey in the new Wedgewood range. This stove is an all season masterpiece. You'll like its big roomy top, its generous oven (takes even the biggest turkey without turning a hair!). You'll like the way everything glides on smooth roller bearings—not a stick in the whole range.

We carry a complete line of Wedgewood stoves, Crane water heaters and all types of heating equipment.

Why we have Thanksgiving Turkey

THREE times a year, at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, the people of the United States advance upon a certain huge golden bronze fowl, cut its throat, strip it of its plumage and convert it into a savory dish which fairly makes the old table groan under the extra burden. Since we have raised this bird into a national significance which parallels to an almost equal degree that of the eagle, symbol of the government itself, it has a special interest to all Americans. Although many folks may still be "as poor as Job's turkey," says a writer in Pathfinder Magazine, they somehow manage and contrive to have turkey for Thanksgiving, whether they can or cannot afford it.

In years gone by those families who could not afford turkey turned to chicken, duck, beef, rabbit, or even pork and were glad to get it.

But now let's get back to the question of why we have or try to have or would like to have or imagine we would like to have turkey for Thanksgiving dinner. The answer of course is that the turkey is strictly an American bird and serving it at feasts of thanksgiving is an old and ancient American custom. Some authorities will tell you that we eat turkey on Thanksgiving day because after the first harvest in the fall of 1621 the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth set aside a period for feasting and offering thanks. To provide food for this feast hunters were sent out by Governor Bradford and they returned with a large supply of game. Hospitality was extended to the Indians, 91 of whom attended the festival which lasted for three days. Conspicuous among the game on the tables were numerous wild turkeys, then common in the woods of Massachusetts. From this circumstance, they say, arose the popular association of these birds with thanksgiving days.

This of course is the true origin of the custom so far as white man has been concerned with it. But the origin of turkey feasts goes back much farther. The millions of families who plan on enjoying hearty Thanksgiving turkey dinners this year will in reality be observing a custom that prevailed ages before the Pilgrims first gathered around their festive board in New England. Smithsonian institution records now bridge the years that veil the aboriginal civilizations and show that the Indians of the Southwest domesticated turkeys and fattened them for their ceremonial feasts. While the Pilgrim Fathers, grateful for good harvests and a year of prosperity in the New World decided on a day of thanksgiving to be celebrated at a banquet of roast turkey, really gave posterity the spirit of thanksgiving, the practice of such feasts had been established long before by the cliff dwellers who actually got their birds from a pen as we do today and not from a thicket as the Pilgrims did.

According to Smithsonian records the turkey of the aboriginal Indians more nearly approximated the

When the Festive Bird Goes Into the Oven.

Thanksgiving turkey of today than the scrawny wild fowl felled by the blunderbuss of the Pilgrim huntsman. Most of our domesticated varieties of turkeys today are really descended from the Mexican wild turkey that ranged over Arizona, western New Mexico and southern Colorado — virtually the dooryard of earliest American civilization. The Pilgrim turkey was merely the wild variety of the same bird which roamed the eastern part of the United States.

Just as the turkey was exclusively an American bird in the time of the aboriginal Indians, so it is today. No fowl from any foreign country approximates it. In fact, wherever turkeys are raised today, and they have been introduced to many foreign countries, the ancestral stock came from America. And so far as is known turkeys are never imported to this country. Contrary to popular opinion the turkey did not get its name from Turkey (the country of that name). The first turkeys taken from the New World (America) and sold in Spain were handled largely by Hebrew merchants. Since the turkey was frequently confused with the peacock it was quite natural that the Hebrew trades should apply to it their name for the peacock, or "tukki." More or less common use of this name followed, which easily became in English our present name "turkey."

THE JUDGE SAYS:

"THANKSGIVING is approaching — it's time we told ourselves over and over again the things about which we should be thankful. There are plenty of those things. But, most important of all, I think, is the chance given to make ourselves happy again."—Judge Harry B. Keidan.

Mischief shall come upon mischief and rumor shall be upon rumor; then shall they seek a vision of the prophet; but the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the ancients.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE PRESIDENT

"The nation has spoken. Every American will accept the verdict, and work for the common cause for the good of the country. That is the spirit of democracy."

So ran the telegram dispatched by Governor Landon to President Roosevelt when it became apparent that the voters had rallied in unprecedented numbers in support of the present administration.

The Democratic victory was not a party victory. No mere party victory could be so overwhelming or so completely break down sectional lines of partisan sympathy.

The victory was a very different thing—it was a wonderful personal victory for Mr. Roosevelt. No man in a century has so captivated the imagination and emotions of the people, and none has received so great an expression of public confidence.

A Republican newspaper said the morning following the election that "the president today is the most popular figure our national life has known since Washington." It is impossible to gainsay that. The most popular of presidents, and those whose administrations stand out mountainously in history—Jefferson, Lincoln, Cleveland—were never so popular as President Roosevelt. The past records have all been shattered by the results of the recent election.

The time for partisanship has passed. And the time for co-operation has come. This does not mean that the president should be followed blindly in every course—that would be unjust to Mr. Roosevelt himself as well as to the country. It does mean, however, that all should work together in the common cause, deliberating differences and adjusting varying points of view to the end that the great ideal of democratic government be served to the ultimate of all our capabilities.

Congratulations, Mr. President! Few men in the world's history have been so signally honored by a great people—an honor which carries with it the gravest responsibilities. And every good citizen will hope and we sincerely believe that Mr. Roosevelt's second term as chief executive of the foremost nation on earth will be successful, and that his will be a high place in the history of our time.

A GRATEFUL THANKSGIVING

Let Thanksgiving be a day of good cheer in America, a day of feasting and rejoicing, for we have much, this year, to be thankful for.

As a nation we have the best of the world's material things, the highest standard of living, the brightest future. And we have still our rich spiritual heritage of freedom under democracy, and know not the shackles of oppression and dread fear of war that grips whole populations elsewhere.

As individuals, we have no person among us who has not good reason to offer thanks. Who has much, can only be more humble in his thanksgiving, for he knows a power far greater than himself must have had a hand in his good fortune.

Who has little, knows withal that he would have less anywhere else in the world. And few indeed are those with more hardships than the courageous band which braved the cold, the snows and the meager provisions of a wild new land more than 300 years ago.

They held the first Thanksgiving. They were the Pilgrims.

No one can think of them and complain of his lot. Nor can anyone forget the faith and courage and humbleness of the man who, in the very darkest hours of America's history, proclaimed Thanksgiving a national holiday, to be observed on the last Thursday of each November. He was Abraham Lincoln, and he set the day in 1864, when the nation was locked in the bloody conflict of civil war.

Let us feast and rejoice. But before sitting down to the well-roasted turkey, the sauce and the pudding and hot mince pie, let us count our blessing in the light of these solemn thoughts. If we do, we shall find them bountiful.

(By Maude Larue Ives)

How dear to our hearts are the eats of our childhood. The old-fashioned mince pies that tasted so good.

The following seasonal recipe is submitted by Mrs. Ethel Bolger, 43 Risel avenue. A quantity of this home made delicacy always makes a hit with the family.

MINCE MEAT

One cup chopped meat, one and one-half cups raisins, one and one-half cups currants, one and one-half cups brown sugar, one-third cup molasses, one cup granulated sugar, three cups chopped apples, one cup meat liquor, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon mace, one-half teaspoon powdered cloves, one lemon rind and juice, one-fourth piece citron, one-half cup brandy, one-fourth cup wine, three teaspoons rose water and two teaspoons salt.

Mix in order given. Use enough of the meat liquor to make quite moist. Substitute one cup cider for the wine and brandy if you prefer. Cook in a porcelain kettle until the apple and raisins are soft. Do not add the wine, brandy and rose water until the mixture is cooked. One cup chopped suet, one-half cup butter, may be added if preferred, but if the fat on the meat is used, or the pies are to be eaten cold, suet is not needed. Meat from the vein or lower part of the round that has a

HAVE YOU JOINED?

Have you joined the Red Cross? There is still time to become one of the thousands to answer the annual roll call this year. It continues until November 26.

Probably few people appreciate, in more than an abstract way, the work of this organization in carrying relief to the victims of disaster. It is highly specialized, scientifically executed work, carried on by experts who know every need of a stricken community. They function with all the speed and clocklike precision of a trained army.

You may have heard that in the past 55 years the Red Cross has functioned at the scenes of 1900 disasters, that its membership includes 11,000,000 persons in this country, and that it has expended $109,500,000 in the cause of mercy. You may have heard, and promptly forgot.

But if ever your community is struck by fire, flood, earthquake or any of the cataclysmic forces of nature that dwarf man and leave him helpless, you'll not forget. Your home wiped out, your family separated, your food, clothing and shelter gone—you'd remember the Red Cross workers then.

Why not remember them now, when they're asking your help for others?

Little fat and no bone is the best for pie meat.

BAKED VEGETABLE LOAF

(From The Farmer's Wife)

Prepare and cook separately one and one-half cups diced potatoes, one cup diced beets and one cup diced carrots. Chop all the vegetables together coarsely with four table-spoons green pepper and four table-spoons onion. Add one cup bread crumbs, one-fourth cup butter, one-third cup beef stock, one beaten egg, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Mix thoroughly. Turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for one hour. Garnish with slices of three hard-boiled eggs. Makes eight servings.

There is still room for more members in the club, until the 30 mark is reached. After the limit number is obtained all contributors of recipes will be listed on a waiting file until vacancies occur.

Motor Clicking

Slight clicking sounds in the motor usually are caused by valve tappets and should be no cause for alarm. On the other hand, absence of noise is no assurance that valves are properly adjusted.

Valves adjusted too closely to eliminate noise may result in warping and burning. When valves seat properly after each opening more power is obtained and valve grinding is necessary less often.

Hen Protects Kitten

Some time ago a stray black and white kitten entered the chicken house on Beckwith street of Mr. Charles F. Burgess. It hobbled with the feathered occupants, refusing to leave, and became domiciled for the winter. It was fed daily by Mr. Burgess, but refused to leave for the more comfortable quarters in the house. Its bed was a nest.

A few days ago it seemed to be in distress. The unexpected then happened. A motherly Plymouth Rock hen, lacking the certificate of a trained nurse, began to sleep in the nest with the kitten, covering it with one of her wings.

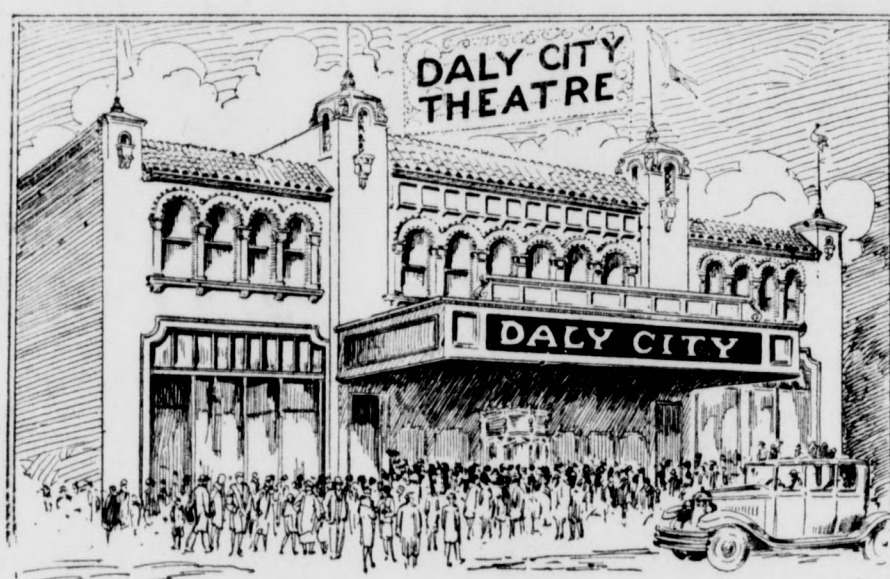

If you wish for an example of the maternal instinct, enter the chicken house with a flashlight and attempt to touch the kitten. The dramatic point of this story is that the hen mothered the kitten only when it needed care.—Carleton Place Herald.

Why He Left Scotland

Sir Douglas Haig, the Scottish commander of the British Army, used to tell of a Scot who bored his English friends by boasting about Scotland.

"Why did you leave Scotland," a Londoner asked, "since you liked the place so much?"

The Scot chuckled and said, "You see, it was like this: In Scotland everybody was as clever as I was—but here I'm getting along verra weel."—Exchange.

EXTEND SANTA FE BUS OPERATIONS

Santa Fe Trail Stages, Inc., will purchase control of Central Arizona Transportation Lines, Inc., and Arizona-Utah Stages, Inc., if the recommendation of Examiner Hendon of the Interstate Commerce Commission is approved by the commission. Examiner Hendon issued his recommendation, report and order following a hearing conducted in Phoenix, to become effective in twenty days unless exceptions are filed. To date no opposition has appeared.

Control of the two motor carrier lines will permit the Santa Fe to extend its stage service between Phoenix, Arizona, and Salt Lake City, Utah, and permit routing of lines from California to points in these states. Santa Fe Train Stages, Inc., have other applications pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission which, if granted as in this instance, will round out the service now extending from Chicago to California, tapping the Rocky Mountain and southwest states.

Factors In Skidding

Regardless of the type of brakes your new car may have, don't make the mistake of thinking that the danger of skidding has vanished.

If the brakes were the only factor involved in the car's going into a tangent, your confidence might be somewhat justified. But there are other factors, such as a difference in the air pressure in the tires on opposite sides of the car, in degrees of tread wear, in the tractive surface of the roadway under the various wheels, etc.

Alertness still is an indispensable factor in preventing skidding, and it is unlikely on the part of the driver whose confidence is over-confidence.

PLENTIFUL CURRENCY PROVES GREAT BOON

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

I have always believed in cheap money and one thing the continuation in office of President Roosevelt assures us is that cheap money is here to stay. Another thing, sometime back the financial center of the world was moved from London to New York and later to Washington. My confident prediction is it will remain in Washington as long as we have cheap money.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, will be retained in office and he is known to hold the opinion cheap money is not a temporary need, but essentially a permanent one.

The banking act of 1935, which concentrated in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board members control of the banking system of the country, is not likely to be materially amended in the next session of Congress.

The bankers are bowing to the inevitable. There is a people's administration in power and they appear to feel there is no use in "bucking" it, at least at present. An expert said not long ago there are many things in the present situation which most bankers do not like, but are accepting them as settled and are looking solely to the matter of profits for their banks.

It is an incontrovertible fact that the most profitable banking is in those parts of the country in which agricultural aid, public works and other federal government expenditures have been the heaviest. The logic of the thing is not to throw a monkey wrench in the governmental machinery, no matter how one may argue against it from the point of view of outworn rugged individualism.

Direct beneficial effect of New Deal policies is reflected in reports of net profits of banks in the twelve Federal Reserve districts for last year. Dallas district banks were first, with average profits of $7.37 per $100 of capital funds; Kansas City district was second, with an average of $7.18; San Francisco followed with $7.04; St. Louis, $6.91; Chicago, $6.53; Boston, $4.95; Atlanta, $4.93; Richmond, $4.9; Minneapolis, $4.82; Cleveland, $4.68; New York, $2.68, and Philadelphia, $1.32.

Students predict, following intensive investigation of the trend of the modern development in economics, that the federal government at no distant day probably will declare in favor of preventing a stock broker from acting both for himself and for the public. Furthermore, the Securities and Exchange Commission may be expected to go right on in its program of segregating "dual functions" in business. Stock exchanges have been fighting segregation, but with the return of President Roosevelt for another four years appear to have little change of staving off the needed reform.

What is the immediate prospect in the national horizon?

Reaction is permanently out of the picture with the millions of people making up this great nation definitely in the foreground.

As I pointed out last week, now that the nation itself is in right hands our task is to put the state under similar control. A decent living for each citizen and a decent world for all is our slogan.

There is going to be a Democratic speaker of the Assembly next January for the first time in about 40 years. And in 1938 another step must be made for the advancement of the cause of fair play; namely:

The election of a Democratic governor.

Lesson Sermon Of Christian Science

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, November 22, on the subject "Soul and Body."

The Golden Text will be: "The light of the body is the eye. If therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light" (Matthew 6: 22). Bible selections will include the following passage from Romans 12: 1, 2: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Detach sense from the body, or matter, which is only a form of human belief, and you may learn the meaning of God, or good, and the nature of the immutable and immortal" (p. 261).

GIVE RULES OF RIGHT OF WAY FOR MOTORISTS

Failure To Obey Traffic Rules At All Times Causes Many Accidents

Failure to yield the right of way as required by law is one of the most frequent causes of traffic accidents, particularly in cities. A statement today by a motorists organization summarized the right of way rules as follows:

When crossing streets, right of way must be yielded to any car already in the intersection. The driver on the right has the right of way only when two cars enter an intersection at the same time.

When making left turns, the driver must give a hand signal continuously for the last 50 feet before turning. If approaching cars are far enough away to avoid danger of collision, the driver may then turn and have the legal right of way. If approaching cars are too close, however, he must yield the right of way to oncoming vehicles. Having so yielded he may then proceed to turn and subsequent approaching traffic must yield to him.

When entering an arterial or through highway the driver must first stop, then proceed, as in the case of the left turn, only when approaching cars are far enough away to avoid danger of collision. But after having yielded to immediately approaching traffic, the entering driver has the right of way. Cars in an intersection have the right of way over approaching cars.

Drivers entering public highways from private roads or driveways have no right of way, but must wait until they can proceed safely.

Drivers must pull over to the right as far as possible and stop upon hearing the siren of a police car, ambulance or fire apparatus.

Except at pedestrian tunnels or overhead crossings, motorists must yield right of way to pedestrians crossing any roadway within any marked crosswalk or unmarked crosswalk at the end of a block. Although "jaywalkers" do not have the right of way, motorists must nevertheless use caution for the safety of such pedestrians.

Don't Be Too Certain

Those motor vehicle owners who combine a meager knowledge of mechanics with a forceful eloquence are likely to find car maintenance higher than other varieties of motorists.

Mechanics are only human and the man who is absolutely positive in his conversation—that he knows what is wrong with his car is likely to send the technical man on a wild goose chase. Service men would prefer to hear the symptoms from the car owner and to make their own diagnosis.

"They didn't forget to call us!"

When thoughts turn homeward, speech can turn homeward too. How comforting and satisfying it is to join voices and exchange good wishes, even though broad miles lie between! Turn to your telephone at this "homey" season of the year. It costs so little—means so much. "Long Distance" is one of the important uses of your telephone.

It Is Not Smart To Annoy Others

Most parents of today desire to provide their children greater advantages than were offered in the times when they as youths underwent, what would now be considered hardships during their school-days. Many of the boys and girls of yesterday trudged miles to school in all kinds of weather taking with them their noon day meal, a cold lunch. Some dads couldn't provide butter for the family's bread, which today is not a luxury, but an indispensable item in the child's daily diet, but mother did the best she could and spread the luscious homemade slices with jam or jelly also a product of her skillful art.

What progress has been made in the last half century. Our young people seem to have every physical need supplied, as well educational advantages which were rarely provided in the earlier years. A car to drive is a luxury often furnished young people of the present.

Riding in a bus in the East Bay Empire recently, the writer's peace loving disposition received a dynamic shock. A dozen or more young men and women, representing a high school of rare architectural beauty, swooped down upon us as our bus stopped at one of its wayside stations. It was evident they were returning from a football game. Disregarding the authority of the bus driver they literally took possession of the vehicle. One young man wielded a cow bell and boys and girls together sang and yelled as the bell tolled. A surprised old couple looked on in apparent amazement. Young people thought more and shouted less when they were in their teens.

The bus driver was busily occupied in driving his car through the heavy late afternoon traffic, checking fares etc. and incidentally trying to keep the moral atmosphere healthful for his passengers in spite of the onslaughts of two drunks trying to be shown the way home. The presiding officer of the occasion threatened drastic measures to which a youth loudly guffawed. "We paid our fare. We'll get a new bus driver"—etc., accompanied by peels from the cow bell. A Chinese boy, one of the group, smiled apologetically. Politeness and courtesy was a part of his make up. No doubt he continued his schooling far into the evening of each day for not only does he attend American schools but Chinese school as well. Too much work, of course. There should be time for play, too, the right sort, but it does bring out the fact that in our indulgent efforts in behalf of our children, we are not leaving enough for them to do. Indolence begets mischief and rowdiness.

The writer recalls a story appearing in a school reader, entitled "The Do As You Likes", who did nothing all day but lie under the Flop Doodle trees waiting for the syrupy Flop Doodle to drip into their open mouths, or the Roasted Pigs to pass close enough so they could, without labor, take a bite.

As parents let us center our efforts not only on the welfare of our neighbor's unusual child, but on our own lovable and oft times irresponsible youngsters who need our pal-like guidance, instead of fearsome guardianship. If necessary sacrifice social engagements for their sakes, for rearing a family is a big job, the pleasure of which falls mostly on mother.

Gasoline Taxes Steadily Increase

California gasoline tax assessments for September reached a total of $4,183,410.93, exceeding the assessments for the corresponding month in 1935 by $203,784.93.

"The gain in the tax assessments of 5.11 per cent over those of September, 1935," said Chairman Collins of the Board of Equalization, "is a continuation of the increases which have been noted for the past 21 months. Ever since December, 1934, the figures for each month have shown an increase over those for the same month of the preceding year."

The assessments for the first nine months of this year indicate that the gasoline tax revenues for the year will undoubtedly exceed those for the year 1935, which in turn surpassed the revenues of any prior year.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING

That a great, irrepressible groundswell of business prosperity is sweeping across the nation is apparent, today, even to those who are careful not to view things too optimistically.

Let's look, as they say, at the record, being written by all manner of reports from authoritative sources.

The steel industry pours millions more dollars into workers' pockets with a ten per cent wage increase. The biggest unit in the motor car industry announces an employee Christmas bonus of ten millions, and a five-cents-an-hour pay raise.

Stocks bubble upward to six year highs, with a day's business of three million shares not uncommon. Dividend distributions literally shower on the country, smashing all records.

In California, a building boom spurts 128 per cent ahead of last year, and the Federal Reserve bulletin reports customers flocking into our stores and shops at a rate 15.9 per cent above a year ago.

Another Federal Reserve report adds everything up and concludes that the nation's general level of activity is at a six year peak and going up. And of the whole picture, even the conservative U. S. Chamber of Commerce says: "It is necessary to go back a decade to find another period in which business momentum had within itself equal elements of strength."

In terms of finance, all this may be called a "bullish outlook for business." But 85 per cent of all our national income goes to those who work for a living. In terms of humanity, since the promise is of new jobs, new hope and abundance and security for millions, it is the brightest "outlook for human happiness" that any nation ever faced.

MINING NOTES OF VARIOUS SECTIONS

Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines for Ontario, has issued details of the road-building program agreed upon by the provincial and federal governments.

It covers fourteen distinct undertakings to mining areas, including Pickle Crow-Patricia; Sand River, Elk Lake and Matchewan; Red Lake-Gold Shore; Ross mine in Hyslop township; Michipicoten area, serving Parkhill, Minto, Darwin and other mines; Sturgeon Lake; Gourdreau and Lochalsh; Woman Lake; Obonga Lake, to reach chromium deposits; Elk Lake to Gowganda; Kenora to Fort Frances and several other roads of lesser importance.

It may not be possible to complete all these projects this year, but if there should be any surplus from the $562,000 allocated by the two governments, further projects will be considered. Two-thirds of the sum is provided by the federal government and one-third by Ontario.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior has issued bulletin No. 391, "Microscopic Structure and Concentratability of The Important Iron Ores of the United States."

It consists of three chapters, 1. Methods of investigating iron ores; 2. Mineralogy of iron ores; and 3. Concentratability of iron ores.

The ores upon which tests were made include samples from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Utah, New Mexico, Minnesota, Michigan, Wyoming and Tennessee. The work is profusely illustrated with microscopic views of various ores.

During the first four months of this year Quebec has produced 202,936 ounces of gold figured at $34 an ounce, compared with 128,044 ounces in the same period of last year, worth $4,353,496.

At the present total rate production for the year will run well over $20,000,000, placing the province securely in second rank among all provinces of the Dominion.

This is the most remarkable record achieved by any province.

In 1927 gold output was but $172,690.

In other words, at present rate of production, the year 1936 will show output of over 120 times that of 1927.

In the new districts that are being opened up in Alaska, none is attracting more favorable attention than the Valdez Creek section, located about 60 miles in an easterly direction from Cantwell on the line of the Government railroad.

The discovery of what is said to be the only body of nickel ore in the United States was announced by W. E. Minzer, of Leavenworth, Washington.

The property, located 27 miles west of Wenatchee, is declared by experts to compare favorably in potential tonnage with the great Canadian nickel mines. Assays taken from over

REGULATIONS LISTED FOR BAY BRIDGE TRAFFIC

Some Special Rules Have Been Established To Protect The Public

Driving over the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, motorists are subject to some special regulations in addition to the usual rules of the road for highway travel. Important and interesting regulations for bay bridge traffic are as follows:

No "U" turns will be permitted on the bridge. Every vehicle passing signs indicating entrances to the bridge immediately becomes subject to the prescribed toll.

Speed regulations are those set up in the California vehicle code. Emphasis is given by the bridge regulations to the state law prohibiting driving at such a slow speed as to impede the normal flow of traffic. Maximum highway speed regulations, of course, also apply.

Motorists can not stop or park on the bridge, but must keep moving. Should a car become stalled, towing service will be supplied by the Division of Highways at double the vehicle toll.

Gasoline will be supplied to stalled vehicles at 30 cents per gallon.

No tire changes or repairs will be permitted on the bridge except by permission and under direction of a highway patrol officer.

The bridge can not be used by vehicles with flat pneumatic or metal tires; by tank trucks or trailers carrying petroleum products; vehicles carrying explosives in any amount, or more than ten gallons of corrosive liquid; or by vehicles with a total vehicle or load width of more than 102 inches.

Also barred from the bridge are pedestrians, bicycles, push carts, wheel barrows or similar vehicles, and animals being led or driven, even though tethered or harnessed.

The toll rate for automobiles, ambulances, taxis, commercial or light delivery automobiles, with driver and not more than four passengers, is 65 cents.

Guests For Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Merl Nesby of Hillside boulevard entertained as their dinner guests, last Sunday, in honor of the bridge celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson and children, Shirley, Tommie, Audrey and Norma.

After the dinner the guests enjoyed a trip over the new bridge.

Try It On Your Horn

The difficulty of finding hands enough to touch the horn button when turning and shifting gears can be solved by grasping the wheel with either hand near the wheel top and touching the horn button with the forearm or elbow.

Frequently in turning, both hands are required. In such cases holding the wheel near the top not only offers an opportunity of blowing the horn without removing one hand from the wheel, but actually makes it easier to steer.

Special Service For Juveniles

"Never arrest a boy offender, cooperate heartily with the Bureau of Special Service." This command was part of a general letter written at one time by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City to patrol officers.

Before this bureau was established the junior delinquents were herded into patrol wagons and arraigned in court with hardened offenders. The chief effect was to make boys little heroes in the eyes of themselves and their companions. The bureau offices are in the School Administration Building and every effort is made to keep youngsters away from the atmosphere of a police court.

"First take the juvenile off the street, to his home or into the nearest store," the mayor orders. After the questioning have him detained until a parent or some responsible person can take charge of him. "The juvenile must not be brought to any police station," he enjoins.

Much of youthful delinquency is boyish exuberance lacking a normal, wholesome outlet. A few years from now not a few of Jersey City's highly respected citizens will probably silently, but none the less sincerely, thank the official who promulgated this procedure.

Old Glory Unit Participates In Week Festivities

Another brilliant chapter has been written in the history of an ever interesting city, San Francisco, one of which the whole country, as well as the state, can well be proud, the opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to the countless thousands who swarmed to the bay districts for the occasion. The event was well punctuated with color, music and gaiety from all over the state. Daly City added her splash of color to the parade last Friday, through the Old Glory Auxiliary Drill Team, with their gold blouses; a team ever ready to do their part to advertise our city.

The day was climaxed by the installation of the officers of the Sons of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Eagles Hall, by Commander Jensen, chairman of youth activities for the department of California. Following the installation of officers, C. V. Collins, on behalf of the drill team, presented the Auxiliary with the parade trophy, won at the Floral Fiesta, Bay Meadows, to add to their rapidly filling trophy case.

Tuesday the team assisted Past Department President Margaret Hubbard to install Fidelity Sterling Auxiliary No. 97, San Francisco, adding beauty and color to an erstwhile somber affair. The efficiency and popularity of this team is shown through the number of invitations received, for again they go forth on November 25 to assist Department Chaplain Ethel Dorn to install Tanforan Auxiliary No. 2517 at San Bruno.

The busy season of installations will be terminated for this group with their own installation, November 27, when Department Council Administration Member Margaret Donahue will install Nellie Jensen and her corp of officers for the coming year, to be held jointly with the Post, in Eagles Hall. Due to limited seating capacity, this will be an invitational affair.

Thursday, these ever busy ladies journey to San Jose, where Major Zane Auxiliary, No. 344 entertains the San Mateo-Santa Clara County Council.

And tonight the members of the advisory board, under the able chairmanship of Alene Lehigh, will supervise the Daughters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. This rapidly growing group of interested youngsters are making great progress and Old Glory is tremendously proud of their unit.

The activities of the week will culminate in the dance to be held in Eagles Hall, tomorrow night. If you are looking for a place to go and have a good time don't fail to come up.

San Jose Defeats Jeff Indians 21-6

Led by the fleet footed Pete Kmetovic, San Jose defeated Jefferson, 21-6, Thursday of last week. Kmetovic, candidate for leading scorer of the P. A. L., ran wild, scoring three touchdowns on thrilling runs of 60 and 92 yards.

Jefferson scored first after Young had recovered Baptista's fumble on the 23 yard line. The Indians worked their way to the six yard line, where Simpson scored on an end run. Ragni failed to make the extra point on a plunge through center.

The Indians, playing fine offensive and defensive ball, seemed to be on their way to a surprise defeat over the league leaders. Their hopes were somewhat shattered, however, when Kmetovic returned Ragni's punt 60 yards to a touchdown, thereby tying the score. Vaughn converted for San Jose, and the score stood 7-6.

Midway in the second quarter Ragni again kicked to Kmetovic on the San Jose eight yard line. Kmetovic fumbled, picked up the ball and scooted down the sidelines 92 yards to pay dirt. Wool converted, and San Jose was leading 14-6 as the half ended.

In the third quarter San Jose threatened to score when Kmetovic received a pass from Baptista and ran to the two yard line, where Simpson stopped him. Kmetovic tried a line buck, but was held for no gain. On the next play Silicani broke through to smear Ammond for a twenty yard loss. Two passes failed and Jefferson took possession of the ball, but the Indians could not make any gains. They were forced to punt as the fourth quarter began. San Jose proceeded to ram straight down the field to the Jefferson ten yard line, where Kmetovic scored on a reverse through center. Wool again converted and the scoring was finished for the day. Final score, 21-6.

Scalia and Simpson led the Jefferson offense. Scalia threw some good passes to Ragni, while Simpson did most of the ground gaining.

Young, the wto Silicani boys and Wright played fine defensive games. Red Bellando, moved to the first string for the San Jose battle by Coach Matthews, played an excellent game.

SILVER DOLLAR BRADY RENTS PENTHOUSE FOR PRIZE HORSE

Silver Dollar Brady, wealthy cowboy from Dallas, has the world's first hotel "penthouse corral" 17 floors above Chicago. Brady and his horse are shown here "at home" looking out over the skyline.

"More Silver Dollars in circulation will bring back better business conditions a whole lot faster."

That's the idea of Silver Dollar Brady, who arrived in Chicago with the intention of getting more Silver Dollars in circulation.

Brady, big, six-foot wealthy rancher from the West, walked into the Hotel Sherman, his prize horse trailing behind. First, he registered with the horse at his heels... then both man and beast went into the coffee shop and had a bite to eat.

He had wired for reservations for himself "and horse," and was given a penthouse high above the street on the 17th floor, with special corral, hay, oats and all, for his horse.

"The trouble with paper dollars is, you don't feel 'em in your pocket," Brady said. "Now, it's different with Silver Dollars. You know you got 'em. They seem to mean a whole lot more. But because they're heavy, you spend 'em a lot quicker."

Brady said he was going to urge merchants to pay their employees in Silver Dollars.

"Then you just watch business boom," he said.

Brady himself wears a valuable belt made of old and rare Silver Dollars.

The electric pageant held on Saturday, November 14, was a beautiful spectacle. The many floats, mostly representing various stages of bridge development, were beautiful to behold. The marching units were splendid in their flashy uniforms.

FRANCIS TO TEST COUNTY CHARTER VOTING METHOD

that the request be denied. Supervisor John Poole seconded the motion, and, with Albert Witt Jr. joining them, the motion carried, Francis declining to vote. High was not present.

HAD TO BE REJECTED

Later, after Attorney Manders announced that he would leave immediately for San Francisco to file the suit in the Supreme Court to test the at-large election provisions in particular and the charter in general, it was explained that it was necessary for the demand to be rejected in order that Francis may be furnished with a basis for his suit—hence the voting of Witt with Beer and Poole against his colleague.

In the 31 page previously prepared action taken to the Supreme Court, Francis seeks an alternative writ of mandate to force the Board of Supervisors to declare him elected and his opponent defeated on the ground that the incumbent carried his own district at the election.

Should the court decide to issue the writ, as requested, when it convenes the board would then be forced to declare Francis elected or go to court. It naturally would adopt the latter alternative, with the district attorney defending the validity of charter.

Thanksgiving Services For Local Churchgoers

Grace Presbyterian Church will conduct a special Thanksgiving service on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The local choir, under the leadership of Miss Mildred Swan, will sing appropriate anthems. The President's Proclamation will be read. The service will be brief, but will in every sense of the word be a real Thanksgiving service.

Indians Organize Basketball Team

In the last two years Jefferson Union High School has adopted two new sports. Last year a track team was organized by former Coach Disbrow. This year a basketball team has been organized by Coach Matthews.

Those who will represent Jefferson in interscholastic basketball are Joe Vanini, Charles Murray, Ray Kennedy, Mark Kanter, James Fox, Jack Corrigan, Emo Barghini, Gene Doyle, Dick Millet, Gardner Girdler and Ray Denning.

The 130's play their first game this Friday evening, November 20. They play St. Ignatius at the Presidio High School gym, Sixteenth avenue and Geary street, at 7:30.

All of Jefferson's games will be played away from school until the gymnasium is completed.
